Yesterday's meeting which was planned as the official reception for the new R.V.C. students, otherwise the Freshettes, came off much as expected. This meeting was for the announcement of rules of conduct for those entering the portals of the august college at the crest of Union Avenue.

Freshettes will be adequately taken care of by a code of rules and regulations carefully prepared for their benefit with an object in view of making the co-ed comport herself with becoming gravity and to appear from behind the mirror of rouge and powder hitherto indulged by the fair ones.

The sophisticated Sophomores have returned to that very old slogan "Beauty is only skin deep." This was their motto while conducting the most solemn initiation of the Freshettes yesterday afternoon in the Royal Victoria College. This meeting was attended by a large number of Sophomores who upheld the dignity of their year. These sages decreed that the Freshettes shall wear bibs upon which their names shall be printed in ink, the letters being two inches in height. They will be easily distinguished while upon the campus for they shall wear two odd stockings, one being black in color and the other being white, or some other light color. They shall wear their hats back to front, and no gloves shall be carried visibly by them. Their array will probably vie with that of the Science Freshmen.

The bibs which are to be worn outside their coats, have woven through the the inscription "GOOD LUCK MY PET". Thus the spirit of good will towards the Freshettes is shown by the Sophomores.

No Freshette costume would be complete without their everlasting green emblem, which this year is to be a wide green ribbon tied in a large bow around the ankle of the light stocking.

The Freshettes are to show their respect towards the upperclassmen, by courtesying when required, as well as standing while in their presence.

These rules were enforced as soon as the Freshettes had received their bibs and green ribbon. One rebellious Freshie who complained that she had never had practice in courtesying was given lessons and practice right at the time. Another one was posted in the corner of a hall way and was required to sing "James McGill".

Library School Offers Courses

Secretaries and Office Work—Evening Classes

The McGill University Library School will offer a series of evening courses in library methods on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, during the academic year of 1928-29. The series will begin on October 15th.

This course is designed to meet the needs of secretaries, research workers, graduate students, and office assistants, as well as those actively engaged in library work. It aims to assist those who are unable to leave their posts in the summer for six weeks of full-time study, as well as those who cannot qualify for admission to the one-year course. Applicants for admission to the course should be high-school graduates or offer equivalent preparation, and should have aptitude and personnel qualification for library work.

The instruction is planned to prepare librarians for small or special libraries or assistants for large libraries and it fulfills the requirements and embodies the course of training approved by the Board of Education for Librarianship of the American Library Association.

An examination is given at the end of each course for those who desire credit for work done. Certificates are given to those who successfully complete the course. Three lecture hours each (Continued on page three)

Room For Good Dentists Here

Dr. A. L. Walsh at Dental
Undergrad. Last Night

There is plenty of room for good dentists in the Province of Quebec, according to Dr. A. L. Walsh, acting Dean of Dentistry, who gave a few words of welcome to the dentistry freshmen at a meeting of the Dental Undergraduate Society last evening in the Medical Building.

Dr. Walsh is one of the most outstanding dentists in Montreal. Though still a young man, he is superintendent of the dental clinic at the General Hospital, is ex-president of the Dental Club of Montreal, and acting Dean of the Faculty of Dentistry. When at McGill as an undergraduate, he was keenly interested in sports, and was at one time Physical Instructor.

The great need of dentists in this province is due, stated Dr. Walsh, to the raising of the requirements in the Quebec Universities for entrance to the Faculty of Dentistry. Whereas several years ago, each class consisted of from 40 to 45 students, in the last year or two, there are seldom more than a half dozen in each class. The population of Quebec is increasing about 75,000 each year, which means that there is a larger field to cover with fewer dentists to do the work. "You have a wonderful opportunity, and there is any amount of work to do," said Dr. Walsh.

It was a source of much pleasure, said Dr. Walsh, to meet a freshman in Dentistry who wanted to take a course leading to the degree M.D., D.D.S. Dr. Walsh's ambition is to outline such a course which will take six years to complete. He feels that this will be of interest to all who wish to specialize in oral surgery.

In speaking to the freshmen in particular, the acting Dean welcomed them to the school of Dentistry and reminded them of their obligation to the Undergraduate Society. As the largest class in the faculty, they were very much depended on, and the success or failure of the different functions connected with the society lay pretty much in their hands.

As a sport himself, Dr. Walsh called for hearty co-operation in faculty football. He felt that the faculty this year was quite capable of producing a winning team, and reminded them of the interfaculty laurels won two years ago. In connection with their game against Macdonald College, announced by the football manager in the first part of the meeting, he invited them to dinner with him prior to their departure for Macdonald.

"Take an interest in College activities. Do something besides studying Dentistry," concluded Dr. Walsh.

J. R. Persk, in extending a vote of thanks, appointed Dr. Walsh as honorary coach of the interfaculty team, on behalf of the Undergraduate members present. In thanking him for his invitation for dinner, at the same time he felt that the menu should first be inspected by the coach, Dr. McMahon.

Attention Arts '30

Arts '30 will meet today at 1 o'clock in the Arts Reading Room instead of on Monday as previously announced. This is necessary as the Junior Prom Representative must be elected from Arts before tonight.

Beside the election of the Junior Prom Representative, the Arts representative on the Annual Board must be chosen.

It is of the utmost importance that all members of the class be on hand.

'Can't Freeze Water, Says Prof. Barnes

Noted Expert Speaks on Active and Passive States of Water

THERMIT ENGINEER

First Graduate Lecture of Session Given Yesterday

"Water is unfreezable," declared Dr. H. T. Barnes, F.R.S., in the first special graduate lecture of the session on "Ice Engineering" at the Macdonald Engineering Building yesterday.

Before it can freeze, water must pass through an intermediate transitional stage during which it is called liquid ice. In this stage it is visably the same as ordinary water but contains small particles, called discoids, of ice. These discoids become larger and later take the form of beautiful ice crystals by shooting out in all directions. The final stage is the solid ice so well known in Canada.

Dr. Barnes stated that ice forms first wherever cooling occurs first. Thus, a river freezes at the surface, and bottom first. This is due to the cooling influences of the air on the surface and to terrestrial radiation, and other reasons on the bottom.

A third class of ice forms in the water and presses up under the surface. In melting periods this and the ice on the bottom, known as anchor ice, press upwards and cause the James so frequent on our Canadian rivers.

In the course of his experiments, Dr. Barnes found that ice would not form readily in water that had produced ice before and had had it removed. This led him to believe that water might be deprived of its ice forming quality. Finally by removing the liquid ice particles as they formed he managed to produce "passive water." Water may not be made a hundred percent passive, but may be deprived to such an extent that the practice of this method would be of use in solving the ice problem.

It is rather unusual to hear of ice forming at thirty four degrees Fahrenheit, yet this is known to happen in some places on the St. Lawrence River. This fact is accounted for by the rapidity of the stream at these places.

At the close of his address Dr. Barnes mentioned that pure water would stop all chemical reactions within the human body. He stated an incident where distilled water had been used entirely during a water scare and that the consumers were badly affected by its continued use. Melted ice water is best for drinking purposes because it contains various attributes, not found in distilled water.

Yesterday's lecture was the first of two to be given by Dr. Barnes on "Ice Engineering." The next will be presented some time next week.

Physics Talks To Be Given

New Prospecting Methods to be Described

A series of ten lectures on modern applications of physics to prospecting for ore and oil will be jointly delivered this winter by Dr. A. S. Eve and Dr. D. A. Keys.

These lectures, covering the same ground as last year, with some additions of recent developments, are intended for mining engineers, physicists, and others who may be interested in this subject, and are free to members of the staff and all students. Tickets must first be obtained from the Registrar's office, and outsiders wishing to attend may do so by paying a fee of five dollars to the Registrar.

Lectures will be delivered every Tuesday evening at 8.15, beginning on October 16th, and will take place at the Macdonald Physics Building.

COURTS CLOSED

It seems somewhat disappointing now that everyone has been aroused by the enthusiastic playing in the closing rounds of the tennis championship that the courts will be closed today on account of the condition of the courts due to wet weather but such is the case. Students must wait for the clerk of the weather to be a bit more favorable.

Dr. Martin Goes To New Medical Center Opening

Dr. C. F. Martin, Acting Principal of McGill University and Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, leaves today for New York where he will attend the dedication of the new Medical Center of that city.

The Administrative Board consisting of officers of Columbia University, the Neurological Institute, the Babies Hospital, the Presbyterian Hospital, Sloane Hospital for women and the Vanderbilt Clinic, has sent an invitation to Dr. Martin to act in an official capacity.

General William Barclay Parsons, Chairman of the Joint Administrative Board will address the meeting and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University will confer honorary degrees.

The new center is situated on 168th and Broadway. Instruction in practical work in the various activities connected with the care of sick people will be given at the center, the administration of which lies in the hands of the Joint Administrative Board.

More Enrolled At Macdonald

Agriculture Has 3 Increases—
Household Science 16

62 AGGIES

Faculty of Music Has 164—126 in School for Teachers

Registration figures for Macdonald College, issued yesterday at the Registrar's Office, indicate a good increase over last year in both Agriculture and Household Science. For the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture, 62 are registered this year. The four household science courses have 97 students this year, an increase of 16 over last year.

Figures for the Faculty of Music up to date show a registration of 164, but as students may enroll up to Christmas time, it is likely that the final figure will not fall below that of last year, which was 200.

The School for Teachers has 126 students this year, including 3 in the Kindergarten course, 112 in the Intermediate course, 10 in the Elementary course, and one Scottish Interchange Student Teacher. The School of Teachers is a provincial institution and not a part of McGill.

In Agriculture, registration for the Diploma Course does not take place till November 1st.

The only enrollment figures not made public as yet are those of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research. Yesterday was the last day for applications for admittance to the School, but the qualifications of each candidate have still to be considered before he is accepted. Consequently the exact number of graduate students cannot be known for a few days.

The figures for all undergraduate faculties except those printed below were in Monday's Daily. The preliminary total for all faculties except that of Graduate Studies now stands at 2698. The final figure for last year for these faculties was 2701, indicating that this year's figures are about 100 under those of 1927-28. It should be remembered, however, that the figures given for last year were made up last January and are final. Comparisons can therefore only be approximate at the present time.

The following are the registration figures detail:

Students To Hear Jacobs On Canadian Jew

Freshmen and Freshettes
Asked to Attend

SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Maccabaean Circle Will Meet
in Union At 3
P.M.

The executive of the Maccabaean Circle announces that they extend a special invitation to all freshmen and freshettes to attend the first meeting of the year 1928-29, which will be held in the McGill Union on Sunday next, October 14th, at 3 p.m. sharp. It is to be especially noted that no freshman rules are in force at the Maccabaean Circle meeting and that all attend in their ordinary clothes and first year students are expected to associate with all students of the upper years on terms of friendship.

The meeting promises to be of great interest, as one of McGill's distinguished graduates has consented to be the principal speaker, Mr. S. W. Jacobs K.C. M.P., of the class of Law '33 will address the circle on "The Jew in Canada." The subject is one of interest and importance, and Mr. Jacobs brings to it first-hand knowledge. He has travelled throughout Canada and has visited all the Jewish communities. He has shown special interest in the Jewish Agricultural colonies in Western Canada which were established by the great philanthropist Baron Maurice de Hirsch, and has important information in regard to them. Mr. Jacobs is also a student of history and will outline the progress of Jewry in Canada both politically and economically he will probably discuss the famous election in Three Rivers, when in 1807-08 a Jew was first elected to Parliament, and the consequence of this election.

The problem of immigration as it affects the Jews both in the past and at present will also be an important part of the address. Mr. Jacobs was one of the prominent members of the Parliamentary Committee on Immigration, which last year thoroughly investigated immigration into Canada, and, as such, he has much inside information.

Apart from the interesting subject of his address, the speaker, it must be remembered, is one of Canada's brilliant citizens. A graduate of McGill he has been, and is, an outstanding member of the Bar. He has figured as counsel in some of Montreal's famous cases. Mr. Jacobs is also a noted orator and parliamentarian. He has for twelve years represented Carleton Place in the House of Commons, and now occupies the high position of Chairman of Public Accounts Committees. As for a speaker he is noted for his wit, and has been called the "Mark Twain" of the Canadian Parliament. (Continued on page three)

Book Exchange To Close Soon

Closing Date Set For Next
Friday

The Book Exchange in the basement of the Union is still the main attraction for the students and co-eds in that auspicious building in spite of the terrific efforts of the Tea Room and the Chess Club to sidetrack the latter from their scholarly intentions. Above the noise from the Daily office next door, one may hear the squealings of delight of the co-eds as they walk out with the priceless heirlooms under their arms.

It is not for naught, however, that these fair members of the R.V.C. forsake the comfortable Tea Room for the dust of the Exchange. After the dust settles down a little, the careful observer may see why these students who study "Art for Art's sake," spend so much time in the basement of the Union. It is not so much to increase their allowance by economizing in books, that they come, as to see the works of art and other historical pieces which are there.

The walls are profusely covered with McGill emblems and crests, which remind everybody of their dear Alma Mater. Between these are some paintings of famous Masters. Perhaps the best among these, is a charcoal of a prehistoric animal, whose reality brings back to the memory the old stories of St. George. It is extremely well-done, but for some reason or other, this Master chose for his (Continued on page four)

Col. Bovey to be McGill Delegate To U. Of W. Ont.

Colonel Wilfrid Bovey, O.B.E., M.A., LL.B., will be McGill representative at the inauguration of Dr. Wm. S. Fox as President of the University of Western Ontario at London on October 19th. Dr. William Sherwood Fox, M.A. (McMaster), Ph.D. (Johns Hopkins) has been Dean of the College of Arts and Professor of Classics in his University.

President Fox's inauguration will take place at the exercises celebrating the Fiftieth Anniversary of the founding of the University of Western Ontario, which dates back to 1827. The growth of the University has been rapid and it now ranks third in Ontario.

Colonel Bovey is attending the inauguration in his official capacity of Director of the Department of Extramural Relations, a new department of McGill University organized last year to help close in the gap between the University as such and the general public.

Study Groups Are Explained

Student Christian Association
Holds Successful Meeting

MANY PRESENT

Dr. Maltby Will Speak in Series of Lectures

The "why" of the Study Groups of the S.C.A. was fully explained by Marjorie Tennant at a very successful meeting held in R.V.C. yesterday at 4 p.m.

She said that a special feature of the S.C.A. was the friendships which one forms among its members. Also that it was a place in which to express frank and honest feelings without being misunderstood. Further, that the S.C.A. leads to a wider and better understanding of the nature of God and that if you will put in all your enthusiasm you will find it more than worth while. In fact, more than one person has been known to say that it had developed their moral character far more than any other University activity, or even their studies.

Miss Muriel Ball, president, called upon Miss Tennant, Study Group Convener, to introduce the various leaders of groups who were present.

The first group-leader to speak was Miss Slack. Her group, as yet, is indefinite, and the topic for the year will depend on the members. Mr. C. M. Stewart then announced that his group would study St. Paul. This subject, as he stated, has limitless possibilities but is rather difficult, owing to the fact that the only available data are letters written by St. Paul.

Dorothy Cross announced that she would be leading a discussion on "The Way of Living" from two view points; first, problems existing on the campus, and secondly, a study of the life of Jesus as it applies to our own lives. Mrs. Hutchinson will be leading two groups, one the "Life of Jesus", and the other, "A Student Problem Group." She also spoke for Rev. R. De Witt Scott, who will lead groups on "St. Mark" and "An Adequate Religion."

Lists of the groups and the members are to be posted on the S.C.A. board in the R.V.C. and in the women's common room in the Arts Building, but it is not too late to join up. Any persons wishing to do so should see Marjorie Tennant or Muriel Ball.

During the business meeting Kay Dawson was elected as extra-R.V.C. to replace Ruth Dow, who had just resigned, owing to pressure of academic work and other activities. Miss Join (Continued on page three)

Prominent Montreal Hostesses Undertake Arrangements for Entertainment

Eight members of the party of British Schoolgirls which has been touring Canada under the auspices of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, arrived here Tuesday morning from Toronto for a special course of lectures arranged for them by McGill.

The girls are accompanied by Miss Edith Thompson, of Aldersburgh, Sussex, England, the English director of the tour. They are Miss Mavis Loran Gair, of Woodford, Green School; Miss Flavia Birrell, St. George's, Harpenden; Miss Cicely Mary Nelson, St. George's, Harpenden; Miss Elinor J. Dempster, Wycombe Abbey; Miss Mary Powell-Cotton, Wycombe Abbey; Miss Margaret Adams, St. Felix, Southwold; Miss Zara Appleton, Grassendale, and Miss Una Jocelyn Swan, of Wycombe Abbey. They are staying at the Y.W.C.A. annex, Dorchester street west.

The original party was composed of twenty-five girls, one of whom, Miss Mairi Cameron, of the Royal School, Bath, was recently notified that she had won a scholarship at Clifton, and was thus obliged to return to England. While in Montreal last week she was the guest of Mrs. H. T. Bovey, Selkirk avenue.

Two directresses have accompanied the girls on their travels, Miss A. Stewart Galt, of Toronto, acting with Miss Thompson in this capacity. While eight of the party are in Montreal, eight others are attending lectures at Queen's University, Kingston and the remaining eight at the University of Toronto.

Besides the educational requirements of the tour the social side is not being overlooked, a number of prominent Montreal hostesses having undertaken the arrangements for the girls' entertainment.

The special lecture at McGill began Wednesday. Dr. Cyrus MacMillan lectured on "Canada in Literature" and Col Bovey spoke on "Canada and Her Resources." Following the lectures, Mrs. Frank L. Packard entertained the girls at luncheon at the Thémis Club. In the afternoon Dr. C. E. Fryer spoke on "French Canada".

Yesterday Dr. MacMillan continued his subject in another lecture and Col Bovey gave a second lecture on "French Canada." In the afternoon Dr. Fryer lectured on "Canada in History." Mrs. J. M. C. Main, regent of the Montreal Municipal Chapter gave a luncheon for the girls at the Hunt Club. While last night they were entertained at dinner at the R.V.C. by Mrs. Vaughan.

Newfoundland Club To Meet

Colonel Bovey Will Speak to Members About Trip

The McGill Newfoundland Club is about to begin its seasons activities. It is the Club's ninth year and its membership and strength have been increasing continually since its inception. Newfoundlanders at McGill have always been active members and keen interest has shown in the Club by its alumni.

It is the most successful sectional club at McGill, President Fitzgerald and his executive are determined that this year is to be the best in its history. He is confident that he will achieve this knowing that he will have the enthusiastic co-operation of all the members.

The first meeting is to take place on Wednesday evening in Strathcona Hall at 8 o'clock. There will be a smoker and refreshments after the meetings.

Colonel Bovey will be present and the members will be very interested to know of an extended trip he made through Newfoundland many years ago.

MONTREAL, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1928.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

As men get on in years they tend to grow grey and consort with only the few select cronies who have drifted down the same long path of years.

So the older students in any university tend to herd together and lose interest in those who are springing up around them to follow in their footsteps for better or for worse as they are guided by the example of the older men.

This superior attitude of the senior in the college is due to no real fault on his part. It is due to a negative rather than a positive quality. He stands apart and awaits the younger man to make his bow. Often as not the younger man is so obsessed with his new surroundings that he fails to notice the senior, or again the freshman sees the older man as a hero who has passed examinations year after year and as one wrapped in a halo of loftier air. Thus in awe the freshman stands aside to let the senior pass and regards him as one in another world who is not interested in the freshman's affairs, his tribulations and his victories.

Now this is all wrong. The freshman must learn to regard his senior as a brother in arms, who has served a term and is ready to give a little advice gleaned in the vale of trials. The senior must make up for the freshman's reticence and welcome with a ready smile, which may be tinged with the paternal feeling.

At any rate the senior cannot afford to miss meeting the freshman and the freshman must not fail to meet the senior. For the sad thing about college life is that the lads have their day and all too soon become seniors, a few among a swarm of mere boys fresh from the preparatory schools. These latter engulf the scene of the senior's earlier exploits. The seniors stand aloof, fall out of the old accustomed ways, and leave the ancient halls of learning feeling that in their last year their Alma Mater has grown away from them and that never more shall exist that feeling of harmony once so strongly filled their hearts. So passes the senior a sadder and a wiser man, disillusioned, wondering if it was all worth while. Of course it was, but that attitude of mind will never make a boasting graduate or one who will come back to revisit the university in after years.

Why? Because he grew apart from the ivy-clad walls before he was forced to leave. The illusion of being cherished by the Alma Mater was dispelled. He left alone. Why should he return—also alone?

SCATTER-BRAINED

The trouble with college life, according to Dr. Faunce, of Brown, is "not that it is vicious, but that it is so often trivial." He doesn't like the social aspect; thinks it makes students scatter-brained. Many of the activities, musical, dramatic, athletic, and such, seems to him a frittering away of time and energy. Begging the reverend doctor's indulgence, we conceive that it is just those extra-curricular doings that save the college community from slow dissolution through boredom. If more educators would discover that the four year's period spent in college is not a mere time for a hypothetical after-life, and would contrive to make it a vital and exciting experience in itself, the students wouldn't have to hustle so hard to devise their own private ways of keeping the old place on its feet and going somewhere.

R. J. W.
"Judge" Oct. 13.

COLLEGE YOUTH

We are now speaking for modern youth. Barrages of criticism is constantly levelled at him from pulpit, press and whatnot. Mostly destructive! He is told that he is thoughtless, materialistic, selfish, reckless, cynical, immoral, inconspicuous, lazy, egotistical, and so in infinitum. In comment we should like to say this. Much, if not all, of these charges may be merited under given circumstances and in given situations. We can not in fairness beg that point. What aggravates us is the spirit in which most of this sort of thing is done.

Rarely do we find any evidence of the attempt to understand him and his problems which his critics profess to be motive to their observations. All is a cold, logical, dispassionate statement of his follies ending in the assertion that he is 'going to the dogs'.

What we ask for him is a sympathetic hearing; an appreciation of the fact that all these labelled-wrongs on his part are the result of an attempt to work out for himself better solutions to problems of life some of which seemed to have been dismissed with an airy gesture by parents, or if not that, then have been written down as incapable of satisfactory solution. Above all do we ask for recognition of the sincerity of his efforts along this line.

This granted we believe there cannot but be sympathy, tolerance and finally very real help on the part of those who have already faced many of the issues with the which he is confronted.

UNIVERSITY FRIENDS

McGill is fortunate in its friends. She is not a state owned university and can claim but little as her rights. She is founded on private funds, and the greater part of her endowment is due to the donations of public spirited and open handed friends and well wishers of the University.

At the meeting of corporation yesterday announcements were made of many gifts to the University of money and in other ways. It is not only for the corporation to extend its thanks to these people, but there is some obligation on the part of the students to mark their appreciation of these things. Directly they have no concern, but indirectly the gifts are to them.

It would be well for everyone here to keep in mind that the things that have been placed at our disposal here at the University are loaned in trust. The benefits we derive are for us to use wisely and carefully. Someday perhaps, we will be in position to do our own share in supporting the college, but at any rate we now have the opportunity of showing appreciation by putting to the best use those things that have been provided here by these friends of ours.

College Comment

TRY AN ACTIVITY

A part of every student's education should be some student activity for which his peculiar qualities and characteristics fit him.

Extra-curricular activities give a practical twist to education which is of great benefit to the participant. Each freshman should find some campus work which appeals to him, especially if that work is in the line of his future occupation.

There is activity for every temperament and for every capacity: debating, music, publications, literary, humorous and historical, dramatics, student offices, membership in specialized organizations such as language clubs and societies of the various schools—in fact such a variety of activities that every student should find his place among them.

If you have the desire to get practical experience in some field for which you are fitted, or if you wish to continue an activity of high school days, then find out where to go and what to do—and plunge.

There is a feeling on the campus that much freshman talent is lost because the newcomers are timid about applying. Such an attitude in a freshman is easy to understand, but there is no logical ground for it.

So if you're interested, try an activity. Now is the time to start.—The Utah Chronicle.

THE SMOKING HABIT

College girls who smoke are not harming their health much as non-smokers who eat lots of candy. This is the conclusion reached by Dr. Anna Richardson, Smith College physician, after a survey of cigarette popularity among students at that institution.

In an article entitled "How Well Are the Seniors?", Doctor Richardson gives facts and figures on the student smoking situation. As regards the class that graduated in June, she found that:

Two-thirds of the girls were occasional or habitual users of cigarettes. Twenty-one per cent smoked five to 20 cigarettes per day, 21 per cent smoked one to four cigarettes per day, 23 per cent smoked occasionally, "either to be in it socially or not to feel that they are silent rebukes to their friends"; 35 per cent did not smoke.

Considering the effect of tobacco on the student's health, Doctor Richardson said that "actual harm in the smoking itself is probably not so great as continuously to nibble sweets."—Cornell Daily Sun.

SPECIALIZATION AND SOLIDITY

The "broad education" or "cultural background" involves a smattering of this, a term of that; six months of this course and a year of that. A few facts here, and a few facts there. Enough for us to go out into the world and hold our own at a dinner party or during a golf match or with the man we expect to sell bonds to. Enough to allow us to enter almost any unspecialized business and still seem fairly intelligent in a casual conversation.

It is easy for a man to be cultured nowadays—our magazines are full of offers of canned culture at rock-bottom prices. Education implies a certain specialization, something more than general superficialities.

There are two trends today in educational fields; one towards the broad education, the cultural background, quickly acquired and superficial. The other is towards an education more specialized and therefore more solid. Princeton has chosen to ally herself with the second trend.—Daily Princetonian.

IT'S NO JOKE

We mean this editorial business. We have to sit down every week and hammer out something that can be called an editorial, which usually has no rhyme or reason and very little pertinence. We were told by our predecessors that no paper was complete without editorials of some kind and so we are doing our best to live up to the traditions of the sheet.

The point is that we often get bored pounding out platitudes and would like to share the job with other people. This would have the added advantage of getting out of a rut. Consequently, if there are any of the readers of this paper who feel that they can contribute something in the way of an editorial that will appeal to the student body, let them send same to our office, signed; we will publish any so received with the initials of the author.—The Manitoulin

BOOKS VIEWED AND REVIEWED

A Professor Plays His Profession---"James Wolfe" Adds Fame To Prof. Waugh

On the Importance of Keeping Abreast of the Times

This issue of the Daily contains the inaugural number of a weekly column which proved valuable to the students last year and one which we hope will be used as an equally reliable source of information during the forthcoming weeks.

A good number among the more intelligent students at McGill occasionally buy a good book, a new book, one which has been recommended to them, or whose title appeals to them or whose author they knew something about. The McGill Daily book reviewing department keeps in close touch with the most important publishing firms in the country and in the United States; they have the catalogues of new issues and have the privilege of drawing from that catalogue a certain number of books to be reviewed by them. Needless to say, the books chosen are those which the reviewers hope will be of the greatest interest to the average students, for their aim is that their column should be read.

Sometimes it seems to the writer to be a hopeless job to educate a college student. Education consists chiefly in being able to understand people and things. For that purpose it is wise to have a good solid background of culture which is, in the main, a study of the past. But to be thoroughly competent and efficient in understanding people and things, one must also grasp the significance of modern movements of thought. Else one will become an antiquarian, an old fogey. Yet how many students take the trouble of reading any contemporary literature except that which appears in the cheaper sort of magazine? Not that we are against magazines. We believe that they too have their uses. But how can one, through them, delve deeper into present thoughts of the literary world, how can one notice the weaknesses of present literature by merely reading stories which the readers themselves admit are second class even in our contemporary output?

No. One must inform himself more and more through the medium of books on what is the ultimate aim of present day society, if there is an aim; what is America's moving force, if that can be defined; what type of culture is evolving, if such a phenomenon is taking place.

Read books. And if you cannot read books, read at least what other people think about those books. We are not simply advertising our wares by saying this. What we mean is that the McGill Daily Book Reviews should first give you the taste for finding out about modern books. Then, that you yourselves find better reviewing mediums, where the accredited opinions of the whole of America are expressed. How many of you read the Book Review Sections of the Sunday New York papers. How many of you read the book-review sections of the higher types of magazines in existence? How many of you know the names of any of the most highly-recommended books published in the last six months? How many of you have read any of them?

If you have not, start now with the extensive reviews published in the Daily. From there, we sincerely hope that you may sometime graduate to reading the more important efforts of professional critics, and perhaps, to a perusal of some of the books themselves.

Professor Boas Writes a Clever First Novel

NEVER GO BACK. By George Boas. New York, Harper and Bros. Price $2.50.

When Francis Harper set out from the university at Oranla, in the far west of the United States, to go to the war, for the first time he was guided by a resolution which was no longer shadowed by an adolescent timidity, but firm and dogged enough to announce that he had at last broken away from the chains that had seemed forever binding him.

When he returned to Oranla after the war, to take on once more his professorship in English, he found himself surrounded by a miserable bunch of childish and narrow-minded men who at once roused in him the greatest resentment and a reaction towards the feeling of his brother officers in the army when he had determined to return to the university—"NEVER GO BACK", they had said to him then; he now admitted to himself that they had been right.

Besides, he was in love now, with a French girl, whom he had once met in America. That had been the trouble with Harper in his university days—he had never found that hot-bed of ambition, of growth, of life.

George Boas, who so ably portrays the intertwining lives of the forever wrangling professors of a small college, is himself a professor of philosophy at Johns Hopkins University; he is only thirty-seven, but yet he can claim Brown, Harvard, Columbia, and California as his Alma Mater, he has served in the army, and previous to going to Johns Hopkins, he lectured at California and Berkeley. Therefore does he know whereof he speaks!

With his first novel, Mr. Boas enters the field of subdued psychological writing, that so ably covered by such authors as Willa Cather or Louis Bromfield. He lacks Mrs. Cather's descriptive ability, and never reaches the forcefulness and depth of introspection of Bromfield, but nevertheless adds a meritorious contribution to that list of books which are intended to show the effect of the play of environment upon the character of some particular individual.

Mr. Boas uses a good graphic and wholesome style. Withal, the nervous groping around for idiom, which is usually seen in the early writings of any author, are merely manifested on one or two minor occasions which rather add than detract from the tang and freshness of the book. With his fortunate background of philosophy, it will be interesting to keep an eye on his future in the new sphere of activity which he has just entered.

Professor Waugh Writes A Noteworthy Biography

May we extend our congratulations to Prof. Waugh, of our department of History, on his recently published work on the great military leader, James Wolfe. The book has already been hailed as a valuable addition to the list of biographical writings, and is receiving a strong endorsement at the hands of all those serious-minded enough to read an entertaining biography.

McGill Squad Entrain Today For Queen City

Altimas Out of Toronto Game Through Injuries

LINE-UP SHIFTED

Twenty-two McGill football players entrain for Toronto at 12:45 today from the Windsor street station for the clash with the Varsity twelve tomorrow afternoon, marking the start for the local aggregation of the twenty-ninth race for the intercollegiate title.

A short and snappy scrimmage against the intermediates last night ended the training of the red squad, and the men will not touch a piskin until they trot out to the field of the Varsity stadium for the fust against the Blue. Special attention was given to the line in yesterday's workout, the coaches taking advantage of the lessons learned in the scrimmage against M.A.A.A. on Wednesday.

The McGill squad will not be at full strength for the opening match. Jerry Altimas, regular snapback, received an injury to his arm in the scrimmage with the Montreal squad, and although an early examination disclosed no serious injury, it was later ascertained that the injury to Altimas was sufficient to keep him out of the game for two weeks. The loss of Altimas forced the mentors to change about the McGill line, placing Munro at snap.

The line-up of the red squad for the Toronto game was announced by Coach Flanagan following the final practice yesterday. Among the changes noted were the placing of Jack Moar at flying wing, and the shifting of Fred Urquhart to the right outside wing position. Urquhart played at flying wing against Balmby Beach and made some of the most spectacular tackles on the field. There is still some doubt as to whether Moar will make the trip, owing to scholastic regulations. In the event that he does not accompany the team, Urquhart will be sent back to the flying wing position, and Granger and Young will take care of the outside wing posts.

Confidence in their ability to defeat the Toronto Varsity squad was expressed at the field house yesterday. Faults found in the line during the scrimmage with M.A.A.A. were given particular attention by the coaches, and the followers of the red team will be banking on a rugged heavy line and a fleet backfield to put the McGill squad at the top of the intercollegiate ladder.

The backfield, composed of Tremblin, Lovering and Doherty, will make its debut as a unit tomorrow, and judging from practice matches, should prove a factor in the performance of the red team. With Munro, Littlefield, McTeer and Young on the line, there will be plenty of experience as well as brawn fighting against the blue tomorrow.

The McGill line-up: Flying wing, Moar; halves, Tremblin, Doherty, Lovering; outside, Young, Urquhart; middies, H. Church, McTeer; insides, Littlefield, C. Church; snap, Munro; quarter, Brown; subs, Teskey, Jacquays, Kitzwiler, Chard, Spakey, Halpenny, Smyth, Russell, Granger.

view, we hope to be able to give our own impression of Professor Waugh's book, in the review which will then be devoted to it.

We Have Received

We have received the following books which will be reviewed in our columns shortly:

GOOD-BYE WISCONSIN, by Glenway Wescott, the youthful author of last year's popular book, "The Grandmothers". New York: Harper and Bros.
LISTEN TO THE MOCKING BIRD, by Stoddard King, a columnist in a Spokane newspaper, who has formed the notion to laugh at his humorous verses. Doubleday, Doran and Gandy, Ltd. Toronto.
JAMES WOLFE, by Professor Waugh, of McGill University, who has made of this a brilliant epitome of the middle eighteenth century. Louis Carrier, Montreal.

son was elected as first year representative.

An interesting feature of the Meeting was the announcement that Dr. Maltby would arrive at McGill University for the week beginning October 28th. On this day he will hold the University Services in Moyle Hall, for the succeeding Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, at 1:30, he will conduct a series of lectures in Strathcona Hall.

The S.C.A. is looking forward to a most successful and eventful season.

HAS OUR WISHES

Coach Flin Flanagan, whose boys are traveling today to the Queen City to wrest the honors from the Blue and White.

McGill vs. Sun Life

Third Exhibition of Session to be Staged on Saturday

Owing to the threatening weather and the sorry condition of the ground, Coach Hay Flinlay was unable to get two full teams to turn out for a final practice before their third exhibition match of the season. Most of the regulars were out, however, and they had quite a stiff practice. Mackinnon, regular outside right, will not turn out for the match and his position will most likely be filled by Crabtree, Commerce freshman, or Vandelpen.

The Sun Life outfit are trying out a few new men, and when they face the Red Squad on the campus on Saturday afternoon, their line will show several new faces. They are a well balanced eleven, being one of the strongest teams playing in the Mid Week League, and were runners up in the competition for the Macoun Cup, being defeated in the Semi-finals by Woodward Press.

The teams will line up as follows:

McGill	Sun Life
Goal	Wm. Brown
Backs	Binion
Forwards	Giovando
	Helwig
	Shum
	Halves
	Violet
	Denny
	Doherty
	Brundie
	Forwards
	Crabtree
	Watt
	Scott
	Maule
	Allen
	Gavin
	Feath
	Mollett
	Eraser
	Vandelpen
	Rev. Errol Amaron will referee the match. The kick off will take place at 1:15 sharp.

week during the academic year are required to obtain a certificate. Further information may be obtained from the Assistant Director, Mrs. Carter.

There are four groups of courses for which credits are given:
A. Elementary Cataloguing: A special evening course with practical work, giving the students practice in planning the full cataloguing of a book.

B. Administration and Management of Libraries: Two courses dealing with 1. The Organization and Administration of Libraries. 2. Problems and Methods of Library Management.

C. Book Selection and Order Work, consisting of four courses: 1. Book Selection. 2. Adult Education. 3. Order Work and Trade Bibliography and one of the three following: 1. Children Libraries and Reading. 2. School Libraries, and 3. Special Libraries.

D. Reference Work and Bibliography, consisting of two courses, one on Reference Work, the other in Subject Bibliography.

In addition to these, there is the following group of three courses for which no credits are given: 1. Retail Bookselling, which is a practical course for booksellers, including lectures and problems in selecting and buying books.

2. Indexing and Filing, a course dealing with the principles of the different methods of filing and the principles of indexing.

3. Bind, a practical apprentice course in the fundamentals of binding.

Holmes: "Are you going to that new show at the Capitol? There is a company of 120."

Watson: "What has that got to do with it?"

Holmes: "Nothing, except that they carry only one trunk."

We wonder if the only reason undertakers go to football games is to watch 'em kick off.

39 Entered In Interfaculty Track Meet

All Members of Former Track Team Entered in Tournament

MOLSON STADIUM

The first open track competition of the year is taking place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the several faculties at college fight it out to see who will be track champions for the coming year. The interfaculty meet has always attracted a large number of enthusiasts and this year's meet should be no exception to the rule, as the competition is exceptionally strong this year, and it is expected that several records will be broken. Next week the inter-collegiate meet will be held at the Percival Molson Stadium, and this week's meet will take the form of an elimination process, as it is largely on their showing in this week's meet that the members of the team for the inter-collegiate meet are chosen.

A big list of entries has already been received, and it is expected that several more men will enter on the field. Arts have the biggest entry list, with nineteen men competing for them. Medicine follows with eleven, while Commerce and Science both have nine men entered. The list of entries, with their numbers, follows.

Entries for Interfaculty Track Meet
Arts—1. Ball, W. L., 2. Brown, K. S., 3. Bourne, M. A., 4. Butler, A. A., 5. Calhoun, R. B., 6. Cameron, E., 7. Costello, H. S., 8. Harris, J. J., 9. Harkness, J., 10. Howard, T. P., 11. Hutchins, J. Running Story of Varsity Game

A complete running story of the game between McGill and Varsity will be given in the Union, Saturday afternoon. A direct wire has been especially secured for this purpose through the efforts of the Daily.

The game is scheduled to commence at Varsity Stadium at 2:30 p.m., and the first report should be through a few minutes after this. The final score of the game will be available at the Union at about 4 o'clock.

Boxers Start Training Soon

Coach Light Calls First Practice for Tuesday

The McGill Boxing Club will resume activities for the season next Tuesday, under the leadership of Coach Bert Light, who has directed the squad for a number of years with signal success. The work-outs will be held, as they were last year, in the gym of the Montreal High School every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The coach points out that several freshmen made the Intercollegiate Boxing Team last year, and a few more came very near doing so, which goes to show that if one starts early enough it is quite possible to reach intercollegiate standing in one winter.

Callisthenics will be the chief form of exercise during the first few work-outs, the same kind of exercise that is carried on by professional boxers in their preparatory training. The coach particularly requests green men to be on deck early, as it is his custom to explain the fundamentals of the art of self-defence during the early part of the season. Each of the blows used is numbered, as prospective candidates find this mode of instruction the easiest to follow. In this way each blow is taught separately, and when this has been mastered the series of blows are explained, but the coach points out that it is essential to turn out early so as to be in at the start.

John Arnold has been appointed manager of the boxing team for the year. Each man must bring his own gym-suit and towel, but lockers will be supplied for boxers.

SWIMMING HOURS

Perhaps it may not be well known to most of the incoming Freshmen that McGill has the use of the Knights of Columbus swimming tank at specified hours during the week. The use of the tank on the following hours is entirely for the McGill students and it is hoped that as many as so wish will avail themselves of this opportunity. Tonight at 5:30 p.m. there will be a workout for all who wish to make the swimming or water polo teams.

The following are the McGill hours at the K. of C. Tank, which is situated on Mountain Street, half a block below St. Catherine Street:—
Monday—5:30-6:30 p.m.
Tuesday—2-6 p.m.
Wednesday—5:30-6:30 p.m.
Thursday—2-6 p.m.
Friday—5:30-6:30 p.m.

SOCCER GOSSIP

With both the Reds and the Blues out on the campus yesterday in preparation for the match against Sun Life on Saturday, the boys are almost all in the best of condition and are eager to get into the swim of intercollegiate football.

and announced the practice hours. He stated that all the freshmen had agreed to try for the team, which would strengthen very greatly their bid for the honours.

It was agreed that a formal dance should be held this year, arranged by a committee, consisting of one representative from each year. The representatives were elected as follows:
First year—"Bunny" Gerhardt.
Second year—Ross Murray.
Third year—Paul Marchand.
Fourth year—H. L. Greaves.

Paul Marchand was announced as dental representative in the Junior Prom Committee.

Following the suggestion of Dr. Martin, that McGill songs be sung at the meetings of the Undergraduate Society, it was decided that this should be tried at the next meeting.

Wallace Whitehead, president of the Society, presided at the meeting.

Elect Sports Managers Today

R.V.C. Girls Meet in Common Room for Discussion

The opening meeting of the R.V.C.A.A. will be held at 1 p.m. today in the R.V.C. Common Room. The election of assistant managers for Hockey, Tennis, Basketball, and Sports will take place, and the question of whether or not to continue holding R.V.C. Sports will be discussed.

The R.V.C. Sports are usually held during the first month of the session. For the last few years the entrants have been so few and interest so little that it is felt that unless more enthusiasm is aroused among the students it would be best to discontinue them altogether. This would be a great disappointment to the students who are interested in this branch of athletics. Those who do enter for the sports are not only enthusiastic but include much promising material. Last year three records were broken. Any student who has any suggestions or solutions to offer for this problem should come to today's meeting where it will be thoroughly discussed.

It has been suggested that a swimming manager and a badminton manager should be added to the R.V.C.A.A. Executive. Last year a badminton tournament was held in the Department of Physical Education. It is proposed that the R.V.C.A.A. hold a similar tournament this year. This would mean that all students whether they belonged to the Physical Education classes or not, would be able to enter. The swimming classes held by the Physical Education Department have aroused such enthusiasm as well as a great deal of talent that a swimming meet it to be held in the spring. Both swimmers and badminton players should come to this meeting which will decide whether these sports should have managers or not.

The room was dark.
It was two A. M.
Her father came to the top of the stairs and called.

He came to the bottom of the stairs and called.

Angrily striding into the parlor, he switched on the lights.
There was no one there.

Co-eds at Oxford

Freedom such as one has never before enjoyed is now being experienced by the undergraduate at Oxford.

Strictly, according to the rules, no girl student should converse with the male sex unchaperoned. But the rules are winked at—not only by the undergraduates themselves, who have always done so, but by those in authority.

It seems that the ridiculousness of the chaperon in many cases has been realized.

But now almost complete licence is accorded to the students. An undergraduate who has "come down" this term said that in time he had been there, there had been a marked loosening of the law.

"Three years ago," he said, "the proctors used to peep into every nook and cranny to catch an undergraduate and an undergraduate having a harmless cup of coffee together."

"Now that rule is relaxed, though it still exists nominally. So much so that it is possible for two students of opposite sexes to spend a whole day together in their rooms! And they think nothing of midnight excursions on the river, getting leave to 'go to the theatre.'" men. Mr. Jacobs is also an author, and law students will remember that his "Railways Law of Canada" is an authority on its subject.

Another feature of the meeting will be a musical program, which will be contributed by the renowned artists of the Union of South Africa, the Misses Leidel, who are at present in Montreal.

The president of the Circle will have certain announcements to make as regards the programme of this year, and the Annual Dance which will shortly be held. Information will also be given as regards the Annual Freshman-Sophomore Debate which will feature the meeting of November 4th. This is another reason for which the presence of the first year students is desired.

In view of the excellence of the programme, a large attendance is expected. It is to be noted that the meeting will begin at 3 p.m. sharp.

Goose-Chase

On Monday evening a love horn freshmen from Victoria was observed wending his way down Yonge St. conspicuously minus the yellow tie which is being worn in certain Vic. circles this season. The observers were four husky sophs, closing in from behind. The freshman, already late for "Rob" practice, quickened his steps; those behind followed suit. Apparently flight was useless. Then a bright idea struck the first man. Turning into a side street, he went over to Bay St. and boarded a north-bound car. The sophomores got on right behind him. After a short argument one of them produced a quarter and paid their fares. The freshman paid no attention to them. At the corner of Bathurst St. and St. Clair Ave., however, he jumped from his seat and left the car. His pursuers pursued him. At the corner he spied a yellow tie and hailed its wearer. "Hello! Going to Rob practice?"

"I didn't know there was one. When is it?"

"Ten o'clock. We're having it late to avoid interruption. Same place as last time."

Naturally, the sophomores drank in this information, and resolved to follow this "greenie" to the North Pole if necessary. However, the "greenie" wasn't so green as they thought. He took a Bathurst car, switched to a west-bound car at Bloor, and transferred again at Dovercourt, with the mystified sophomores right on his heels. The Dovercourt car carried them to King St., where the freshman entered an east-bound car, still followed by the "big four."

After an hour or more of switching from one car to another, the wandering freshman found himself riding east on Danforth, away out beyond the Woodbine, with the rearward still in attendance. Craving exercise, he left the car and began to walk. Soon it started raining. After walking about two miles in various directions, the sophs began to grow angry. They had spent all their money on car fare, and were completely lost. They halted a moment to discuss the situation. A mocking laugh from ahead further enraged them, and they broke into a run. However, just as his faithful followers rounded a corner, the freshman disappeared into a lane. The four waited for him to reappear, muttering dire threats of vengeance to be exacted when he should. But they never saw him again. He slipped off in the darkness, leaving his pursuers stranded in the rain, far from home and "stone broke."

Masterpiece the name "Hot Dog". Probably the sharp points on the monster's back, so suggestive of Satan and his Hell, led to the "Hot" part of the name, but all the efforts of our biologists to justify the word "Dog" have failed.

A point which has baffled our physicists, is the condition of the glass on the door of the Exchange. The upper panes of glass are translucent and not transparent as they formerly were. This is perhaps explained by the fact that the dust which arises has probably settled so thickly that it has become a part of the glass itself, and now defies removal. But this is still an hypothesis, yet to be proven.

As your correspondent was thus viewing this phenomenon he was almost stunned by a startling surprise by one of the officials of the Exchange, namely that the former book-owners who had entrusted their wares to them were actually to get their money on or after Tuesday, October 22nd, yes, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, Anno Domini. They also wished announced that they still have quite a little stock left to sell before the closing date, next Friday.

Would-be philosophers and psychologists still have their choice, while our economists have great difficulty in practising economy in the purchase of their books. Our French students will have no difficulty in replenishing their rather enforced libraries in that classical language, if they act quickly. French Composition, by Cameron, and Lavisse's Histoire de France occupy quite a little space on the shelves, while almost every book for every course is available. This also applies to Petrie's Latin Reader, and that excellent German fairy-tale book, Marchen and Erzählungen.

Billiard players, who wish to improve their knowledge of angles, are invited to take advantage of the number of trigonometry books available, as also the Intermediate Algebra by Wilson and Warren. An excellent "T" square is also procurable, as are many surveying and engineering books.

Anyone who wants a History of the English Literature by either of Messrs. Long or Haleck, may have the same by appearing at two o'clock this afternoon.

ENGLISH GIRLS NOW AT MCGILL HEAR LECTURES

This morning Col. Bovey will give another lecture on "Canada and Her Resources." Mrs. C. S. Cameron is the hostess today at luncheon. In the afternoon Dr. Fryer will continue his lecture on "Canada in History."

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. W. de M. Marler will give a tea for the girls. Sunday morning the party will leave for Ottawa where they will meet the girls who are now at Queen's and Varsity. All will return to Montreal Tuesday, October 16.

The following will be hostesses to members of the party prior to their return to England: Mrs. J. M. C. Muir, with whom Miss Thompson will stay; Mrs. Wm. C. Hodgson, Mrs. J. Dakers Paterson, Mrs. Wilfrid Bovey, Mrs. Ira Mackay, Lady Drummond, Miss Gascogne, Mrs. Ross Macdonald, Mrs. Martin Wolff, Mrs. Hampson, Mrs. Bernard Coghlin, Mrs. R. Adair, Mrs. de Jersey White, Mrs. Gilbert Stairs, Mrs. Walter Lyman, Mrs. C. S. Cameron, and Mrs. Bedford Jones.

On Wednesday, October 17, the party will be the guests of the Montreal Harbor Commission, who will entertain them at luncheon. In the afternoon, Mrs. Wm. C. Hodgson, the provincial president, will give a reception at her home. On Thursday they will lunch at Macdonald College, and afterwards be taken for a drive around the island, visiting the gallery of the Art Association on their return to the city. For the afternoon, Miss Gascogne has invited the visiting girls to meet her pupils.

On Friday, the party will sail for England on the Duchess of Atholl.

The committee in charge of the girls while in Montreal is composed of Mrs. Muir, Mrs. Hodgson and Mrs. Wilfrid Bovey. The provincial committee consists of the same members, with Mrs. C. M. De R. Flinnis, of Quebec, Miss Joan Arnold, of Toronto, as the secretary of the committee for the whole of Canada.

FRESHETTES ARE NOW SUBJECT TO REGULATIONS

Campus carrying small sponges, which will aid in removing some of the "Skin deep beauty," exhibited by the Freshettes.

These rules laid down by the Sophomores, must be strictly obeyed, or severe penalties shall be imposed. One of the penalties, it was revealed yesterday, shall be a Solo sung on the steps of the Arts Building after an English 2 lecture.

The initiation covers a period of one week, after which the Freshettes will have learned enough to judge for themselves whether "Beauty is only skin deep" or not. In the meantime Freshettes are strongly advised to use Palmolive Soap, in order to preserve that much needed "School girl complexion."

Notices

Notices must be legibly written on one side of the paper only and must be in the McGill Daily office before eight o'clock on the night previous to publication. Brevity is essential. Under no circumstances will notices be accepted over the telephone.

HOLIDAY

In view of the fact that the inter-collegiate sports are to be held this year at McGill on the 19th instant, the usual annual holiday fixed in the calendar for the 12th is cancelled and the 19th instant will be observed as such instead.

Oct. 10th, 1928. J. A. Nicholson, Registrar.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

Applications will be received for a Rhodes Scholarship for the Province of Quebec up to October 31st, 1928. Candidates from McGill who propose applying for this scholarship should send in the necessary papers to Mr. Gilbert S. Stairs, K.C., 107 St. James St. Montreal. Mr. Stairs is secretary of the Quebec Selection Committee.

Full particulars regarding the scholarship and application forms can be obtained from the undersigned.
